

Seattle Homelessness: Tweets vs Real Numbers

Does the amount of social media communication (tweet counts) on homelessness reflect the true statistics of homelessness (data.world) ?

I am using the Twitter Advanced Search feature to build my second dataset. I compared these to the homeless population data in Seattle.

I have found that the Twitter talk does not reflect the true statistics of homelessness.

Next steps are to compare this with Twitter overall tweet counts and increase in users over these years. Also, to create visualizations that are more intuitive.
